

UN News Centre

With breaking stories and newswire products from

UN agencies ramp up fight against hunger

The food crisis of 2007/2008 is far from over. The UN Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) estimates that over a billion people suffer from severe malnutrition as high food prices and global recession continue to devastate the developing world. UN agencies have pledged to step up efforts to better serve the hungry. A farmer in Armenia plants winter wheat received from FAO. FAO/Johan Spanner

Back

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

Next

Related: news, Audio, video

New UN projects seek to speed up progress on global anti-poverty goals

News story

UN agency calls for global day-long fast as symbol of war on hunger

News story

Food shortages incapacitate and kill millions of children each year – UN report

News story

Battle against hunger can be won with right policies, says UN report

News story

Millions of poor across Africa set to suffer deepening food crisis, warns UN report

News story

Head of UN agency applauds China-Africa forum's commitment on food security

News story

Pakistani farmers get help to boost production from UN, European Union

News story

Malnutrition on the rise among rural Tajik children, UN warns

News story

War against hunger, global warming can be won on farmlands – UN report

News story

Huge amounts of avoidable post-harvest losses worsens hunger for poor – UN
News story

View more photo stories

